OCTANE PISTOLS OF FURY

Mr. Johnson wants it. He's sent Vinny and Rufus to get it. Fat Ronnie and Dallas are trying to beat them to it. Where is the Porcelain Buddha?

Octane Pistols of Fury is a new crime comedy that takes place in the seedy underworld of New York City. It stars Andrew Pifko (The Godfather video game, The Gospel of John), Aldous Davidson (The Life Before Her Eyes), Michael Lee Rautins (BroMos), Chris Prine (Scissor Cop), Greg Stees (Johnny B. Homeless), and Mitch Magee (Funny Or Die).

THE CREATORS

Chris Prine

Born in Florida and raised in New Hampshire, Chris Prine has been involved in creating dozens of sketches, web series episodes and shorts. In 2009 his animated pilot Man-Man, was an official selection in the New York Television Festival.

Chris started working with video at a cable access station at the University of New Hampshire. Completely unsupervised, he and his team produced 10 episodes of a sketch comedy television series before he graduated with a Bachelor of Science in Computer Science.

Upon co-founding Escape Pod Films in 2007, Chris has produced several popular web series (Scissor Cop, Sandwich of Terror, and The Stryker Files) for New York's monthly film competition, Channel 101. These series, along with numerous sketch comedy videos have garnered Prine and cohorts a substantial online following.

Chris currently lives in Brooklyn, New York. He is probably writing, directing, editing, scoring, or acting in a video at this very second.

Greg Stees

Greg Stees was born and raised in Albany, NY and has created over a dozen short films, including Break (2006) and Zack Rogers: Pizza Delivery (2009). The web series he co-directed and edited, Johnny B. Homeless (2010) won NYTVF's People's Choice Award and was picked up by Comedy Central's Atom.com.

Greg studied film at Rochester Institute of Technology, and went on to receive his Bachelor of Fine Arts degree at New York University's Tisch School of the Arts.

From 2007 to 2008, he produced, directed, and edited the web series Decoy Squad for GamePro Magazine. In 2008, Greg created VAMPS, a comedy series about neurotic New York City vampires for Channel101.

Greg has trained at the Upright Citizen's Brigada Theater in and performs long-form improv in New York.

He lives in Astoria, Queens. His favorite soup is Turkey Chili, which is, in fact, technically a stew.
